Message from Chairperson

The DeafNET Centre of Knowledge's Board of Trustees is proud of DeafNET and its achievements of the past year.

DeafNET and its network, the Africa Contact Group for Mental Health and Deafness (ACGMHD), were active on the African continent and globally in order to extend networks and to engage in new partnerships in the interest of Deaf persons and their families on the African continent. DeafNET and the ACGMHD were represented on various forums, at international conferences, meetings with government officials, politicians and entrepreneurs to promote the human rights of Deaf persons and their families in accordance with the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (UNCRPD). National Associations of the Deaf (NAD) were consulted and became important stakeholders/role players in ensuring relevancy and appropriateness of activities or projects in their countries.

This report will also highlight the positive and supportive role of our goodwill ambassadors who honour us with their association to DeafNET. Their passion and involvement bring awareness and knowledge of deafness and Deaf rights to segments of society that can help to make society more accessible and caring.

A support programme for educators of Deaf learners to further develop their knowledge and skills was developed with a network of African Deaf and hearing experts. It already shows positive results – the level of literacy, numeracy and bilingual ability of Deaf learners improved significantly where the programme was applied. DeafNET is currently looking at partnering with universities to research the programme's effectiveness.

DeafNET sees the legal recognition of Sign Languages in African countries as a key issue in ensuring equal access and opportunities for Deaf citizens and their children. DeafNET supports NAD's with awareness raising in the society and the production of Sign Language DVD's and manuals to promote Sign Language as equal to other languages.

Self representation and leadership skills in Deaf communities are essential in order for Deaf persons to take their rightful place in society and to improve their socio-economic situation. The leadership and management training workshops and continuous development programme of DeafNET will continue to equip and support Deaf community leaders in this respect. The forming of new partnerships is in process to expand and improve this programme.

Transfer of knowledge and skills in Deaf persons and their communities was a priority in all activities and projects. It included entrepreneurship skills and the initiating of beekeeping by Deaf entrepreneurs. Partnerships were established to ensure mentorship and sustainability.

The HIV/AIDS awareness and prevention training workshops continued during the report period. Deaf persons were trained and supplied with training toolkits to disseminate information and knowledge in their communities in an accessible and culturally sensitive manner.

Health and wellbeing of Deaf persons and their families is a major concern of DeafNET and the Africa Contact Group for Mental Health and Deafness. In 2015, delegates from African countries will come together for the 4th Africa Workshop on Mental Health and Deafness. This will be an opportunity to strengthen cooperation networks and to share knowledge and ideas for improving the quality of life of Deaf families in countries on the African continent.

Rev AL Smit

You, the reader, are invited to join forces with DeafNET and the ACGMHD to ensure the expansion and continuation of its activities, programmes and projects to improve the health and socio-economic wellbeing of Deaf persons and their children in Africa.

DeafNET is privileged to have the support of a major sponsor, donors, goodwill ambassadors and partners who believe in its cause. Without their support, it would not be possible for DeafNET to carry out its vision and mission. Thank you for your active involvement, friendship and professional guidance.

DeafNET expresses its sincere gratitude to the members of the Board of Trustees who offered their time, expertise and wisdom free of charge to the benefit of DeafNET and its work.

A L Smit
Chairperson

Message from CEO

As we look back on our footprints of the past year, DeafNET is enormously appreciative towards the support and commitment of our main sponsor, SVE, our Board of Trustees and the DeafNET staff. Our year was filled with creative energy which brought together ideas that enriched the lives of the Deaf. DeafNET's team proves that with dedication and the sharing of gifts, we can create an environment of growth and unlock the possibilities within the Deaf communities across this beautiful continent of Africa.

Mrs Suzette Willemse

When I mirror our 2013/2014 financial year, I cannot but be proud of our achievements as a young dynamic organisation. The 2013/2014- footprints of DeafNET reflect in our leadership and management workshops; the training and evaluation of educators to develop the reading and writing skills of Deaf learners; the development of multi-media products for the Deaf; the dissemination of knowledge & skills through our Scholarship & Beekeeping projects; our HIV/AIDS Toolkit project that goes beyond language barriers; and our networking and partnership development.

This report highlights the positive contribution that our sponsors, network partners, goodwill ambassadors and friends made which resulted in the improvement of health and well-being of the Deaf. We admire the commitment of the Deaf and hearing persons in our network to bring change and better the lives of the Deaf and their families throughout Africa and the Indian Ocean Islands. Through the diversity of gifts we can jointly work towards a collective goal and enforce change that can benefit the Deaf as a vulnerable group.

As we unwrapped this powerful gift of knowledge, it gave us the opportunity to explore and discover the enormous potential within our Deaf communities in Africa. We celebrate this rich variety of human gifts and skills within the Deaf. As an organisation, we want to nurture our vision to become a world-class network of knowledge & expertise in the interests of people in Africa who experience hearing loss & related communication barriers.
